

Handover

Your holiday home is ready for handover and soon you will receive the keys for your new home. The long wait is over and you might think that our role in the transaction ends here.

With 2Base however that is not the case.

This is because we help you all the way through and ensure you are happy with the whole process.

Useful Information

Part of our help is contained in the list, My2Base Toolbox and Security in your holiday home documents.

These documents help to give you the best possible start as a property owner in Turkey.

Handling the details

The most important one is our list.

The list is simple but important and serves to record any defects or flaws in your property before you move in.

Does every socket work? Is the bathroom tap dripping? Have the kitchen doors been put on properly? Is every spotlight working?

We give you this list and with that in your hand we make you check every major and minor detail of your home. The problems then are nipped in the bud which saves even bigger problems later.

Any defects or flaws are written down and the list is given to us.

Our service department translates this list into Turkish so no one can be in any doubt of the wording, and then the builder receives a copy.

The builder is responsible for putting right all defects and flaws but you can be absolutely sure that we make sure things are done correctly – that is your guarantee.

Mostly for handymen and women

Another item is the My2Base Toolbox.

Should you feel like putting up your lamps or pictures yourself, you can borrow a My2Base Toolbox.

With the proper tools to hand, everything can be fixed to your liking with no hassle at all.

Everyday security

Our Security in your holiday home document serves the purpose of making sure you and your home are as secure as possible. Apart from helping you with insurance, we have put together a list of practical suggestions which should give optimum security in your home.

More than you might expect

We are here for you all the way through your property purchase.
If anything is not functioning as it should, we are ready to help you – even with the unexpected things.

Of course you are more than welcome to visit us at our office for a chat – you know where we are!
